TERMS AND CONDITIONS

By applying for a BC Farmer Identity Card, the bona fide Farmer ID Cardholder and all Authorized Cardholders agree to abide by the Terms and Conditions.

DEFINITIONS

Bona Fide Farmer – Is a bona fide farmer as defined by the Province of British Columbia. / Social Service Tax Act Regulations Division 2, Para 2.8.

Authorized Cardholder – Authorized cardholders are designated personnel on the issue date of the authorized cardholder for the expressed purpose of making farm purchases.

Member Association – A BC producer association in good standing with the BC Agriculture Council.

EXPIRY DATE FOR AUTHORIZED CARDS – All authorized cards will bear the same expiry date as the associated bona fide Farmer ID Card.

REPLACEMENT CARDS – All lost or missing cards must be reported to the BC Agriculture Council office toll free at 1.866.522.3447 or by email at info@bcac.bc.ca. All cards can be replaced for a fee, plus applicable taxes.

TRANSFERABILITY – The BC Farmer ID Card is NOT transferable. Each card is unique to the bona fide Farmer ID cardholder and/or individual Authorized Users. Should the bona fide Farmer ID cardholder or Authorized User no longer need their card, the card must be returned to the BCAC office to protect the individual's information on the cards. Should a new employee require an Authorized User Card, the bona fide Farmer ID cardholder may request a new card at the regular fee plus applicable taxes.

EXPIRED CARDS – All expired BC Farmer ID Cards must be returned to the BC Agriculture Council office. This is intended to protect the individual's information on the cards. The expired cards will be destroyed appropriately and permanently. The bona fide Farmer ID cardholder may renew his/her card and any associated Authorized cards.

REFUND – You are entitled to a full refund if you contact the BC Agriculture Council office within ten (10) days of the payment being made, which will be within ten (10) days of the date when the original application was received by the BC Agriculture Council office.

PLEASE INCLUDE A COPY OF YOUR PROPERTY ASSESSMENT NOTICE FROM THIS CURRENT YEAR.
